

2012 FAN GUIDE

While you're watching the world's most attended annual sporting event, you're also giving back to your community. Proceeds from the US Open go toward funding the USTA's mission of promoting and developing the growth of tennis in the United States.

- In 2011, the USTA directed $49 million to communities across America to build and expand public tennis courts, fund scholarships and grants, offer tutoring, and provide racquets and balls to youth.
- The USTA has provided over 170,000 free racquets to hundreds of after school programs that serve up much more than just tennis.
- In 2011, the USTA provided $2 million in grants to park and recreation agencies, YMCAs, National Junior Tennis and Learning chapters and school districts for tennis programs, as well as tennis court construction, expansion and refurbishments.
- In 2002, the USTA became the first national governing body of both an Olympic and Paralympic sport.
- For USTA Serves*, the national charitable foundation of the USTA, tennis more than just a game. It's a responsibility - which is why over the past 12 years, USTA Serves has directed over $13 million in education scholarships and program grants, including $3.3 million in college scholarships and player incentive awards to middle and high school students and $10.5 million to fund mentoring tutoring and nutritional guidance programs for children and people with disabilities - serving up a real difference.

This guide is designed to help you get the most out of your 2012 US Open experience. However, if you are in need of further assistance or information, please feel free to call the USTA Billie Jean King National Tennis Center Ticket Office at 718.760.6363 or go to USOpen.org.
