Blake vs. Dent Headlines Tuesday's Singles Matches

Spectators saw tennis at its finest well into Monday evening with ten players ranked in the Top 100 competing throughout the day. Guests were also treated to the inaugural Opening Ceremony, which officially kicked off the main draws of the Atlanta Tennis Championships. The night ended with a third set tiebreak victory for James Blake and John Isner who defeated fellow Americans Robby Ginepri and Ryan Sweeting 3-6, 6-4, [10-3].

Session 2 of the tournament begins at 4 p.m. today and a showdown between American's James Blake and Taylor Dent is the premier singles match. Excluding their meeting in the 2003 French Open, Blake and Dent have split sets every time they have played, and relied on the third set to determine a winner.

Preceding Blake and Dent on the Stadium Court will be Kennesaw resident Robby Ginepri, facing off against Nick Lindahl. The night will conclude with top singles seed Andy Roddick and doubles partner Mardy Fish, who take on Teymuraz Gabashvili and Michal Przysiezny.
